The City of Oceanside will use funds provided through the Homelessness Prevention and Rapid Re-Housing Program (HPRP) primarily for households with children ages 0-18 to help the family maintain a secure and stable home environment. The City will use funds to pay arrears on rent or utilities, and to pay for security deposits for homeless families who can maintain rental payments once in a rental unit. The City will work with McKinney-Vento persons at the local school districts to ensure that school-age children remain in school and that they receive any benefits to which they are entitled. The City's primary goal is to keep children in school and to assist parents to establish a realistic plan for dealing with financial issues resulting from the current economic recession. They will use its positive relationships with nonprofit partners to provide mental health and/or family counseling, job-training services, and access to unemployment and nutrition services available to them.

Quarterly Activities/Project Description*
The City of Oceanside will manage HPRP activities in-house through the Neighborhood Services Department - Housing Division, which also acts as a Housing Authority for the Section 8 Rental Assistance Program. The City will launch local HPRP outreach and intake by the end of October 2009 and anticipates using the majority of funds by the end of September 2010. As stated above, the primary goal and strategies of the local program will be to help families with children 0-18 to remain in or move to secure, stable rental housing where children can continue to go to their school of origin, and to assist parents to develop realistic plans to weather the current financial recession.
