Free Family Art Day

Sunday, February 8
1:00—4:00 p.m.

This month's Free Family Art Day will incorporate music and art based on the exhibition California Dreaming. Special music guest Mitchell Walker, will be playing the didgeridoo! At Free Family Art Day, children and their parents work closely in the artistic process designing small works of art that reflect concepts and themes from the exhibitions on view. All art activities and exhibitions on view are free to the public. Projects are designed to engage children of all ages. No art experience is required for the art activities and all supplies will be provided. Light and healthy refreshments will be available at every Free Family Art Day. Children will also have the opportunity to explore the museum through a kid-centric tour.

Distinguished Lecture Series: Robert Henri's California Portraits

Wednesday, February 11
10:30—12:00

Dr. Derrick Cartwright, Director of University Galleries and Professor of Practice in the Department of Art, Architecture, and Art History at the University of San Diego, will be speaking on the great American realist Robert Henri who, though best known for his gritty views of New York and his poignant images of urban dwellers, painted portraits of working San Diegans to members of Los Angeles's elite society. The lecture is entitled "Robert Henri's California Portraits". He will explore the lasting significance of this work to our understanding of modernism and some of the less well-understood reasons for Henri's continued interest in California as a place.
