FOOD RECOVERY ORGANIZATIONS

Developed by Green Oceanside and San Diego Food System Alliance

Definitions

Food Recovery Organization

An entity that collects and transports edible food from food businesses and distributes it directly to the public. Many food recovery organizations are trained in food safety and handling protocols for food transportation.

Food Recovery Service

An entity that collects and transports edible food from food businesses to a food recovery organization or other entities for distribution.

Food Distribution Agency

An entity that collects edible food from a food bank warehouse and distributes it to the public.

Value Added Processor

An entity or infrastructure equipment that converts excess food into another, reusable product (e.g. sauces, jams, soap, hand sanitizer)

Frequently Referenced Organizations

San Diego Food Bank \(SDFB\)

One of two regional food banks in San Diego County, the Jacobs and Cushman San Diego Food Bank Food provides nutritious food to individuals and families in need in communities throughout San Diego County. SDFB has one warehouses in Vista and one warehouse in Mira Mesa.

Feeding San Diego \(FSD\)

The second regional food bank in San Diego County, Feeding San Diego aims to connect every person facing hunger with nutritious meals by maximizing food rescue. Feeding San Diego is affiliated with the national Feeding America network of food banks and has a warehouse in Mira Mesa.

Food Donation Connection \(FDC\)

Food Donation Connection provides an alternative to discarding surplus wholesome food by linking food service donors with surplus food to local hunger relief agencies. FDC is a global company that partners predominantly with national chains.

Ab Jones & Co.

A.B. Jones and Co. is a social venture that centers around fork to farm sustainability in an effort to enhance Southern California soils and provide economic and environmental benefits to the community. Working with local industry partners, they are able to divert organic waste from landfills and create some of the best soil amendments available.

Gleaners

Gleaning organizations pick and recover whole produce mainly from residential orchards and backyards, as well as from farms and Farmers Markets.

Primary Distribution Type

Food Pantry

Distribution center where individuals and families can receive food.

Congregate Meal

Meals served in group settings to people, sometimes focused on those who are at least 60 years of age.

Emergency Food Assistance Program (EFAP)

Distributes emergency food package, the majority of the food distributed at these sites includes nonperishable and shelf-stable food items. Households must meet federal income guidelines.

Residential Long Term

Long-term care given to adults or children who stay in a residential setting rather than in their own home or family home. Can include group homes.

Residential Temporary Shelter

Short-term or limited time care given to adults or children who stay in a residential setting rather than in their own home or family home

After School Program

Food distribution programs held at school sites and distributed after regular schedule.

Neighborhood Distributions

Distribution sites offering fresh produce and nonperishable food items. The majority of the food distributed at these sites is fresh fruits and vegetables. Anyone can receive food at a Neighborhood Distribution Program site.

Senior Food Program

Monthly 35-pound box of food and a 2-pound block of cheese to senior citizens aged 60 and over who meet income guidelines.

Meal Distribution

Prepared meals served on-site.

Food Types

Shelf-stable

Food that can be safely stored at room temperature, or "on the shelf." These non-perishable products include canned and bottled foods, rice, pasta, flour, sugar, spices, oils, and other products that do not require refrigeration until after opening.

Produce

Whole fruits and vegetables.

Perishable

Food that requires refrigeration, such as dairy, eggs, and meat.

Prepared

Food that was prepared in a certified kitchen, but not served to customers. This includes cooked items like lasagna, as well as assembled items requiring refrigeration like salads and sandwiches.
